Collection No. 6

This is not only a surprise, but a price collection, for those who want the very finest, but are not particular as to names.

At the end of the selling season there is a limited number of all the varieties we catalogue left in the bins. In late summer 1928, we took this stock and planted it regardless of name or value; even the tissue wrappers were left on. This crop was harvested and planted only in 1929, with the result we now have a wonderfully well ripened stock, which has been handled as one big lot, costing no more to grow than ordinary Dahlias, but made up of our entire collection of 1928,—values ranging from 25c to $7.50 (at 1930 prices).

Because of the economical way these were handled—no labeling—no sorting or extra handling—we are able to pass this extra value on to you at a nominal price, as long as the stock lasts. All orders filled in rotation.

6 ROOTS $1.00

13 ROOTS $2.00

Collection No. 7 $15⁰⁰

Value over $42.00

One strong root of each of the varieties listed in Collections No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 4, No. 5—32 roots, all labeled true to name, and guaranteed to give entire satisfaction, and — FREE OF CHARGE—one gorgeous, free-blooming new Dahlia of our creation, which has never been offered for sale—we value it at $5.00—33 roots in all for $15.00. A total value of over $42.00.

These unusual offers are for immediate acceptance, and are made to introduce and demonstrate the superiority of PEACOCK DAHLIAS.

Offers good only until
March 1st, 1930

Use special envelope we enclose, and we pay the postage. All roots are sent to you by mail, postpaid. Order at once, as these special offers cannot be accepted after the busy season starts—March 1st, 1930.

Positively no changes can be made in these collections as we put them up in large quantities, before the busy season starts.

Delivery will be made in March, or earlier, or at any later date requested.

We are in business to please our customers, and guarantee entire satisfaction.

is exclusive, being the only post office in the world by that name.

"DAHLIA CULTURE" 1930

By LAWRENCE K. PEACOCK
Author of "The Dahlia"
(5 editions)

First secretary of the American Dahlia Society at its organization in 1895 and acknowledged authority on Dahlias for 37 years.

POCKET EDITION — This convenient little treatise is devoted exclusively to the successful cultivation of the Dahlia. It tells plainly what to do and how to do it. Also a lot of what not to do. It gives particular attention to disbudding, with educational illustrations that are self evident, clear, concise and practical; by a grower who has never failed to have a crop of the best commercial as well as exhibition blooms in his 46 years of experience. Convenient size, 9 x 4 inches, 32 pages.

This little book covers the information asked for in thousands of letters and makes successful Dahlia culture easy. The illustrations on disbudding are particularly instructive. By mail postpaid, 25 cents.
